

DAYTON FREIGHT LINES

Company Culture & Values

Tom Cronin
President
Dayton Freight Lines

“There aren't a lot of contractors who build truck terminals, so I started out with local contractors. I knew what I wanted, but they all had their own ideas.

Then, along came Renier.

I like their approach. They understand what I want, and I trust them to deliver it. It frees me up to do what I should be doing... running my business. I'm old-fashioned. I do business on a handshake. The Renier guys are also relationship guys, and they're always up front with me. I like doing business with folks like that.

Renier is one of the few contractors who will travel, and they've done projects for me in Ft. Wayne, Cincinnati, Walton, Ky. and Evansville, Indiana just last year. Right now, we're on our 14th new facility.”
