“ Renier kept our businesses going while under construction.

With seven businesses under one roof, Renier met the challenge to transition the construction so no one business would be impacted for long.

Before working with Renier, I worked with other general contractors, and I can say that Renier provided a higher quality process, was more caring about my business during construction, and was more concerned about providing the right environment once completed.

I love walking into my building. The atmosphere feels right, our customers are comfortable, it is bright and clean, and the cars look good. ”
